G.T.P. Official Says Camps Are Ideal || British House to Dissolve on Monday

MAY DISSOLVE BRITISH HOUSE ON MONDAY; START ELECTIONS

First Polling Could Be Held in Ten Days and Elections in That Case Would Be Over Before Middle of December

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Nov. 15.—The House of Commons was packed today on the re-assembling for the autumn session, with an unusually large attendance of members and crowds in the galleries.

Right Hon. Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, acted as leader of the government in the absence of Premier Asquith. He said the latter would make a statement on Thursday and he moved an adjournment till that date.

Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, leader of the opposition, protested against Thursday being set apart for the premier's statement. He insisted that it should be made on Wednesday. If not given then it should be deferred until Monday. In any event it would not be possible for him to be present.

Lloyd-George said the statement could be postponed until Friday, but Balfour urged a postponement until Monday as a large number of members would be absent at the annual meeting of the Tariff Reform League.

There is very great activity in political organization circles. In London have been hurriedly arranged and candidates are leaving London to arrange campaigns in their respective constituencies. It is probable that another meeting of the cabinet will be held soon after the return of Premier Asquith from his visit to King George at Sandringham.

The House adjourned until Friday. It is expected that dissolution will be announced on Monday at the latest. First pollings might then be held on November 26 and all elections, with the exception of those in Orkney and Shetland and in the Scotch Universities would be concluded by December 10.

BABY NEARLY KILLED

A peculiar accident on James Avenue near First yesterday lacked but little of being a tragedy. A heavy telegraph pole was being hauled along an ordinary wagon gear much too short for it. The pole was improperly balanced and the rear end of it coming loose caused the hind wheels to "skid" and the pole swung violently around, striking a baby carriage passing on the time. Before the mother could see the carriage was torn from her grasp and the baby thrown to the pavement. There was a gasp from the crowd and every one held his breath but a rush for the supposed dead baby proved it was very fine alive as its cries proved. Neither baby nor carriage were any the worse for the experience.

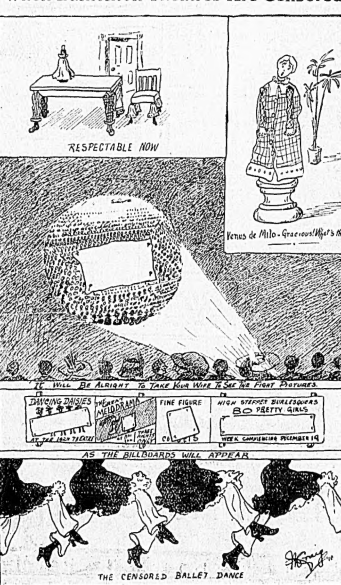

THE WEATHER

Forecast—All west, moderately cold with light local snow falls.

The ladies of Christ Church are giving a business men's luncheon and bazaar on Thursday, Nov. 17, in the old postoffice building. The luncheon is from 12 to 2 o'clock and an afternoon tea to be served. All are cordially invited.

Grain prices to-day are: Wheat (futures) Nov. 25½, 26; Dec. 26, 27; May, 29½, 30; Cash (close) No. 1 Northern, 41; No. 2 Northern, 41; No. 3 Northern, 38; Oats, 35½; Barley, 47; Flax, 25½.

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR TECHNICAL COMMISSION

Royal Commission Will Visit Edmonton on Thursday and Friday And Will Visit Manufacturers and Hear Evidence.

Edmonton and Strathcona are to be visited on Thursday and Friday of this week by the "Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education." The Commission was called into existence by the Dominion Government, after consultation with the governments of the several provinces of Canada, in order that a complete and comprehensive study of the whole problem of industrial and technical education from a national standpoint should be made.

At present the Commission is concerned with the purpose of gathering information as to the needs and present equipment of the country as a whole. The information gathered will be embodied in a report which may be the basis of a scheme for technical schools for the whole of Canada.

The personnel of the Commission is as follows:—Jas. W. Robertson, C.M.G., L.L.D., Montreal, Chairman; Hon. John N. Armstrong, Esq., North Sydney, N. S.; George Bryce, Esq., L.L.D., Winnipeg; M. Gaspard de Serres, Montreal; Gilbert M. Murray, Esq., B.A., Toronto; David Forsyth, Esq., M.A., Berlin, Ont.; James Simpson, Esq., Toronto.

In a letter addressed to Mayor Lee, Dr. Robertson states:

"The Commission will give particular attention to the manufacturing industries, to agriculture, to domestic occupations, to mining, to the fisheries, to the lumber interests, to the building trades, to the transportation services, as well as the technical training required for commercial operations."

"The Commission will also make inquiries into, (a) the needs of existing industries in respect to labor, (b) the quality of labor which is available, and (c) the needs of such labor for industrial training and technical education. In order to facilitate the work of the Commission, a local committee

CLASH IN CHINESE SENATE

Provincial Members and Government Authorities Differ over Punishment of a Governor.

Peking, Nov. 15.—A sharp conflict between the provincial members and the government authorities marked today's session of the Tzu Cheng Yuan, or imperial senate.

Several of the representatives, resenting the refusal of the grand councilors to defend and explain in person the reason for the charges failure to punish the governor of Hunan for extracting a loan without consulting the provincial assembly, carried out a filibuster plan and blocked the business of the house for four hours. They declare they will not proceed until they get their demands. It is believed this may result in the government resorting to repressive measures.

BUYS 25,000 ACRES OF LAND

English Banker Pays Three Hundred Thousand Dollars to Further Colonization Scheme.

BUYS 25,000—PAGE ONE

A land deal of large proportions has been consummated in Edmonton by the acquiring by an English banker of 25,000 acres of land in the Lashburn district for the purpose of furthering a colonization scheme. The price paid is understood to be $300,000. It is the intention of the purchaser to settle the land with the best class of British farmers. The property is located between the main lines of the G. T. P. and C. N. R. and is admirably adapted to wheat raising and mixed farming. The deal was engineered by S. Schultz, of Edmonton.

NEWS ITEMS FROM THE PEACE RIVER

Business is Brisk and Prospects for Coming Season Are Very Bright.

Peace River Crossing, Nov. 15.—The river closed here on the 12th, being the earliest on record for some years.

The west mail for Spirit River and Grand Prairie points crossed this morning.

From the appearance of the weather at this time there may possibly be another break up as a Chinook started yesterday from the south west. It is to be hoped that the river will hold so as to give a chance to early movement of winter travel.

Prospects generally throughout this country are much brighter than last year. Fur indications are good. Crops have turned out well with the most satisfactory.

Market quotations from this point are as follows:—Wheat from $1.75 to $2.00 per bushel, demand good. Beef, six cents on foot, ten cents dressed. Potatoes $1.25 per bushel, demand good. Onions ten cents per pound. Butter, untanned, packed, fifty cents per pound. Local dairy, from fifty to sixty-five cents.

Things generally throughout this country have been progressing steadily throughout the past summer. Mr. J. R. Boyle, manager of the Grand Prairie Lumber Co. reports a very busy and successful season just completed, the demand for lumber far exceeding the supply. Mr. Boyle is making arrangements for an early movement of a much larger equipment for next season's work.

The hay prospects in the upper country are good.

Considerable building has been under way here. An English church has just been completed. Mr. H. A. George has under construction a fifteen hundred dollar building for restaurant and hotel purposes. Mr. John Wright, a pioneer hotel man of the north has recently turned over his buildings here for the use of the government telegraphs, is also starting to build.

CONDITION IN ALL CAMPS IDEAL, SAYS E. J. CHAMBERLAIN

States That Medical Inspector Sent Out By Labor Department to Investigate G. T. P. Camps Found Conditions Excellent—To Move Engineering offices from Edmonton to Fitzhugh.

The report that the engineering department of the Grand Trunk Pacific at present located in Edmonton, over the Merchants Bank, was to be moved to Fitzhugh, the first divisional point west of here, was confirmed this morning by E. J. Chamberlain, general manager of the road, who arrived in the city last night in his private car, "Transcontinental," from the west, accompanied by Collingwood Schrieffer, the government inspector, who continued east this morning. Mr. Chamberlain stated that the transfer would take place between now and December first.

The reason assigned for the action is because of the fact that the engineering department is too far from the scene of operations, and for that same reason the engineering staff at Prince Rupert were also moved 180 miles east to Hazelton.

In speaking of the progress made in the west Mr. Chamberlain was confident that the line would reach Prairie Creek at Christmas and the Athabasca River by the early spring.

"Labor conditions on this side of the mountains," said the general manager, "are not nearly so bad as on the other side, where there will probably always be a scarcity. Splendid progress is being made in the west in every way. The construction camps are in an ideal condition, as good as any on the continent, despite reports to the contrary. I don't think there is a railroad contractor today who treats his men as well as Foley, Polys, Welsh, and Stewart. I could get heavy damages if they chose to incite the libel proceedings against some of these newspapers."

"A few days ago I met the government medical inspector at Winnipeg, sent out by the department of labor to investigate the camp conditions in the west. He told me that he did not understand why such reports of conditions had been published as he had found them ideal."

Mr. Chamberlain, "is expected to be finished next summer. There is a new town sprung up at the junction of the main line and the Brazeau branch, six miles west of Edson, called Shirley. There are already about fifty buildings there, and many of them are very substantial."

That special work is being accomplished on the government sections of the road was the statement of Mr. Chamberlain. The section between Fort William and Winnipeg is now completed, although the company has not yet taken it over. At the same time, however, considerable grain is being transported over it.

Next summer, it is confidently expected the line from Moncton, N. B., will reach the Quebec bridge, while 10 miles west of the bridge has already been finished, as well as 20 miles in Ontario, north of Cochrane.

"At the rate they are travelling now," said Mr. Chamberlain, "all the lines will be connected by 1913. It has been a banner year in the east where the weather and labor conditions have been vastly superior to the west. The harvest season in the west and the demand of the farmers for labor or cause the railroads considerable inconvenience."

This morning in his private car, Mr. Chamberlain held a conference with Mayor Williams and Commissioner McConnell, of Regina, in regard to several requests made by the city of Regina in regard to the Grand Trunk Pacific entrance to that city. Mr. Chamberlain announced himself as agreeable to the changes desired.

WAS LONG ARRAY OF BOTTLES IN COURT

Anheuser Bush and Capital Beer Labels Are Cause of Legal Dispute.

HEAR EVIDENCE TODAY

St. Louis Company Claims Loss of Business and Asks Perpetual Injunction.

F. C. Newell's defence of the Edmonton Brewing and Malting Co. in their suit with the Anheuser Busch Co., of St. Louis, Mo., rests on the claim that the Budweiser label is misleading and that to issue a permanent injunction against the Capital Beer label would be to make the court a party to the defrauding of the public.

The case opened in the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon, a long array of bottles occupying the lawyers' tables and the clerk's desk. The evidence was taken by officials of the plaintiff company to give the history of the manufacture of Budweiser beer at St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Newell sought to draw out all the facts in connection with the name Budweiser and being objected to by the plaintiff, explained that the line of his defence would be that Budweiser was not quite true to its name.

The last official called was asked Mr. Newell which was the banner year for the sale of the company's beer in Canada. He replied that the present one had been.

"Perhaps the Capital going on the market has helped your business," suggested the lawyer.

"Perhaps so," was the reply.

"It is not for me to say."

Wm. Smith and John Gilman swore that in May of this year they made a round of the hotels of the city, asking for Budweiser beer and in each case were given Capital. The former occasioned "some little merriment" when asked as to the appearance of the several bartenders he saw.

"I wasn't interested in the man, I was after beer," he replied.

The defence do not deny the case with which Capital and Budweiser beer may be confused, but claim that the American company has no monopoly on the label, for it is not registered in Canada and it does not represent the facts correctly.

The claim of the American company is for a perpetual injunction restraining the Edmonton Brewing and Malting Co. from using the label in question and sustained damages for the loss in trade occasioned by the misleading (as they say) label.

PREMIER SIFTON IN REPLY TO MICHENER

Spirited Speeches Marked Debate on Reply to Speech From the Throne—Expected It Will Be Brought to a Close This Afternoon.

The debate on the reply to the speech from the throne in able addresses. Before the debate commenced Mr. Bennett gave notice of motion for an adjournment of the house to the government to place on the table all correspondence, telegrams, memoranda, and other documents pertaining to the resignation of Premier Rutherford and the calling of Mr. Sifton to form a ministry. Mr. Bennett gave notice that on Wednesday he would ask the government if it had been called upon as yet to pay any of the interest on the bonds of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway guaranteed by the Rutherford administration.

Hon. W. A. Buchanan introduced a petition from the Leithridge W. M. A. asking for incorporation and from the town of Stafford asking for authority to raise $15,000 for construction of a waterworks system.

Yesterday afternoon's session in the house was full of life and incident. Premier Sifton crossed wires with the leader of the opposition and his first lieutenant. All three speeches were vigorous and gave promise of many interesting debates to follow. Mr. Stewart and Mr. McArthur moved and seconded the reply to the

TO-DAY'S MARKETS

Winnipeg, Nov. 15.—Another advance of one or two cents in wheat prices has surprised the grain trade.

The reasons are not clearly defined, but the fact that the market was heavily oversold is being gradually realized and prices are showing a tendency to recover. Deferred options did not participate actively in the upward movements but November delivery and cash wheat were strong and higher.

WHO IS GUILTY OF CONTEMPT?

A St. Louis lawyer comes to town in connection with a case in which a client of his in United States is interested. The lawyer, however eminent he may be in his own country, has no legal standing in this country and his comparative eminence is unknown here. The case is to come before a judge of the supreme court without a jury. A reporter meets the St. Louisian, who emits a few views on the case and a local paper prints them.

Promptly a lawyer holding a brief for the other side of the case arises to assert that his client's case is being prejudiced, and he moves that the court proceed against the local paper for contempt.

Could anything be more absurd?

If the local lawyer's claim is analyzed it means that a judge of the supreme court is likely to be biased in his views on a point of law by an interview taken from an alien by a reporter who would not know Blackstone if he met him in the road and published in a local paper among a heterogeneous mass of other stuff which is usually forgotten five minutes after it is read.

The question is, which is guilty of contempt of court, the newspaper which prints the interview as news or the lawyer who admits in open court holding a judge to be so easily biased?

THE TROUBLES OF RUPERT

Over in Prince Rupert the new city council is having its troubles.

Rupe, as they call it on the Coast, was promoted by the B. C. government and the G. T. P. When the city became incorporated it commenced to assess the property within the city limits. The G. T. P.'s assessment was something over seven million, and at the regular tax rate they owed the city about a hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Hays wrote a letter offering to pay the city $5,000 a year for twenty years as satisfaction for all taxes.

Before the city was incorporated the B. C. government built a lot of sidewalks over the muskeg so that intending purchasers could get out to see the real estate. After incorporation the B. C. government sent Rupert a bill for the sidewalks.

The annual report of the G. T. P. and the annual financial statement of British Columbia show that Rupert was a pretty good thing. The people of Rupe are satisfied that what they say is correct.

TALK BUILDS NO RAILWAYS

While the legislature is settling down to a long debate and probably a reasonably acrimonious session, and while some papers are commencing to discover suspicious circumstances in the commission report, the fact should not be lost sight of that so far there has been very little done toward getting a railway from Edmonton to the water system of the north.

This fornic business in the legislature does not build much railway and just about this time what the country wants most is some assurance that there will be a road built. The papers which are discovering suspicious circumstances are never likely to be suspected of doing anything toward building a road.

WHERE ARE THOSE CANDIDATES?

It is now only a few days until the date of nomination for the municipal elections and as yet only one candidate has announced himself.

If there are other men who intend to offer themselves as nominees it is up to them to step forward and announce themselves at once. The public has little patience with the man who waits until the last minute to say that he intends to run.

Mr. Armstrong has at least one claim upon public favor, that he does not leave his friends in the dark as to what his intentions are.

AN ABLE LEADER

From the Calgary Albertian

The Alberta Conservatives, able warriors and strategists that they are, propose to defeat the enemy by allowing it to fall to pieces and to die by internal discussion, which might do very well if the enemy was not possessed of a leader with more skill in leadership than the entire opposition combined and mutilated several times.

MR. WILLIAM MACKENZIE DREAMS

From the Ottawa Journal

Wm. Mackenzie, the man who has built a transcontinental line without government or other aid, has begun to dream, and with scores of millions behind a dreamer, his Castles in Spain are apt sometimes to become actual Spanish Castles. This is what renders the dreaming of Mr. Mackenzie important.

The Toronto Globe tells us in a recent issue of the latest dream of the President of the Canadian Northern Railway. Quoting from that paper:

On the upper reaches of the Saguenay there is water-power capable of developing from 150,000 to 200,000 horse-power. To the north of Lake St. John, draining a vast area of the best spruce country in the Dominion. Mr. Mackenzie's dream is of a city that is to be built around the falls and of the use of Lake St. John as a huge mill pond on which the spruce can be stored to be floated down to the great pulp mills at well, let us call it the city of Mackenzie. A number of capitalists with ten million dollars to invest are interested in the dream, and it is proposed next year to make the vision a reality.

Certainly in a country such as Canada, with great water powers, valuable forests, and a working population, the building of the city of Mackenzie should not present any great difficulties to the commander of uncounted gold. What Mr. Mackenzie does he usually does well, hence all Canada will watch with interest for the birth of the city of Mackenzie, and the incidents that attend its youth and growth. While it is a city, as yet on paper, it is assured. The children of the next generation in their school-room, dreaming of the best of Canadian cities will have to include "Mackenzie" among the rest.

AMERICAN AND MEXICAN MOBS

From the Chicago Tribune

The American government will call the attention of that of Mexico to the more violent and reprehensible features of the anti-American demonstrations in the city of Mexico. The Mexican government will express regret and promise to make every effort to punish the guilty parties.

The state department will demand satisfaction for injuries to unoffending American citizens, but it is painfully aware of the immediate cause of recent anti-American demonstrations. It was the burning at the stake of a Mexican by an infuriated Texan mob. The man had been guilty of an atrocious crime, but he was denied the trial to which the laws and treaty stipulations entitled him. The manner of his execution was infamous. We affect to look down upon Mexicans who tolerate the brutality of bull fights, but when it comes to downright savagery Americans outdo them.

This country is not in a position to assume an ultra virtuous tone when it comes to discussing mobs. American mobs have murdered Italians, Chinamen and Mexicans and the guilty parties have escaped because state justice would not touch them. Take the case of the Mexican lynched in Texas. The men who killed him should be punished, but if the Mexican government were to ask that it be done the national government would have to say that it could do no more than ask the Texas authorities to do their duty—which they would not.

Surely it is time to enact the legislation first urged by President Harrison, making offenses against the treaty rights of foreigners domiciled in the United States cognizable in the federal courts. Then when a foreigner was lynched in Louisiana or Idaho the United States government could do something besides expressing regret and paying an indemnity.

JUST PARAGRAPHS

It was on Thursday of last week that the Waterways report came down. It was yesterday that the Bulletin commenced to discover suspicious circumstances. It takes just four days for mail to come from Ottawa. An introduction to the Guggenheims will be offered by the Bulletin as a reward to the party who can discover who inspired the Bulletin editorial.

The Alix story said the woman fainted when she heard somebody speak about the Crippen case. Maybe she had come to Alix in the hope of getting away from the everlasting topic and the shock floored her when she discovered that they knew about it even in Alix.

The explosion of that Alix story makes it look as though Belle Elmore is in the same class with Teddy Roosevelt, John Arthur Johnston, William Jennings Bryan and Cuth—among those who can't come back.

While there may be nothing to prevent Mr. Bennett questioning the constitutionality of Mr. Sifton's accession to office, the Vermilion election returns are a pretty adequate answer to any question the junior member might raise about the plurality.

The municipal candidates must have hobble skirts that prevent them climbing into the arena.

MARTY WALSH AND HIS DOUBLE

Bears a striking resemblance to Billy McMaster, the Football Referee.

(Ottawa Free Press)
Saturday morning a stranger accosted Marty Walsh, the hockey player, on Bank street, and asked him how the game was going.

"Oh, all right, I guess," replied Marty, "putting his hand on his watch."
In the grand stand of Lansdowne Park in the afternoon, some other stranger flattered Marty with this one: "What you doing in the grand stand. Why don't you get out on the field and look after the game?"

Believing he was the prospective victim of a Black Hand plot, Marty went to the Russell after the game where he met Billy McMaster.

"Say, Marty, I have been taken for you ever since I arrived in Ottawa." One fellow asked me if I was going to play with Renfrew this evening.

At that moment Ross Binkley, the Argo, centre-half, came over and started talking to Walsh.

"Now, Billy," he said, "I don't think you should have taken the ball away from us that last time." Walsh got up at once and started to explain why he had awarded the ball to Ottawa. The pair argued for quite a time, when McMaster came up, and as soon as Binkley saw him, he looked from Marty to Billy, then started to laugh. Out of the fact both the football arbitrator and hockey player's big toe on the right foot turns in at a pretty sharp angle, they do not resemble one another very much.

SLIM DELL AND THE ETHEOPIAN

Narrative of How the Sunflower Invested in Two Chair Car Tickets.

A little story has just leaked out concerning one of Slim Dell's adventures last season—Western Canadian fans will remember that the Sunflower was no dwarf, and his 6 feet 3 inches of stature often occasioned him discomfort.

Sleeping cars were the lane of his life, so, on one trip from Winnipeg to Calgary, Slim conceived the brilliant idea of getting two seats in the chair car, stretching out, and having a comfortable evening's rest.

Before boarding the train, he sought out the dusky porter, the man who is generally hanging around a Pullman, and addressed him thus: "Boy," quoth Mr. Dell, "You see that I'm a pretty big fellow?"

"Deed ah yes, Kunnell."

"Well, my boy, here's a chance for you to amuse a little change. There's a chair car on this train, isn't there?"

"Yessah, yessah—two or three of them, sah."

"Very well. Dash away and get me two chairs, and I shall reward thee handsomely. Here's the coin for the chairs, and here's a dollar for yourself."

The sable gentleman scurried off, and just as the train was about to start, returned with two chair tickets which he pressed into the Sunflower's receptive palm. Not till after Mr. Dell was aboard, and the train well under way did the fortunate possessor of the chairs discover that the tickets called for two seats, not together, but one of them in Car 2 and the other in Car 3.

Now, Slim is pretty long but a car length rather exceeded the capacity of his legs, so one can well imagine the horrible din he raised. The porter looked himself in a stateroom and was not seen for the rest of the run.

TEARING DOWN ARENA
Reno Citizens See No Prospects of Another Big Fight

A despatch from Reno says that the big light arena in which Johnson and Jeffries met is being demolished. This must mean that Renfrew's no prospects of pulling off more world's championship affairs. They are going out of the game.

The arena was built by public subscription, and the money was collected in Reno within a couple of hours when Tex Rickard made known his offer from Goldfield. Under the terms of the subscription the arena was to belong to the citizens, who subscribed the fund, and was to be left standing after the big fight. It was then to be leased for other fights, and the stockholders were to divide the profits.

TIGERS VS. VARSITY.

Next Saturday, Varsity and T. A. C. play the first game for the Rugby championship, the winners meeting Hamilton Tigers on the following Saturday for the Earl Grey Cup and all the honours that go with it.

The final struggle, unless all hope is to the bad, should be between the Tigers and Varsity, and the weights and line-ups of the two best teams in Canada is rather interesting.

CALLIES WILL MEET

General Meeting of the A. and B. Teams Called for Thursday night.

The general meeting of the Callies A. and B. teams will be held in the Separate School Hall on Thursday night. The meeting will be held right after the business meeting of the Society as this will wrap up the affairs of the club for the season of 1910, it is imperative that an extra big turnout be present.

There will also be some very important items read from the reports of the secretary and treasurer, concerning last season's work.

A cordial invitation is extended to all members and supporters of both the Calliean teams.

There will be a committee meeting held after the general meeting to decide on a date and place when the medals won by the Callies A. champions of the City League, will be presented to the individual players. A large attendance of the various members of the management and selection committees is requested as there is much important business to be transacted.

T. C. S. ARE CHAMPIONS.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Many of the finest exponents and greatest authorities on rugby in Ontario have been heard to say, not once, but many times, that the best games of rugby from every standpoint are those played by the youngsters in the little "Big Four," and the game of the champions of the T. C. S. at Upper Canada College yesterday afternoon, when the boys from the "little red schoolhouse on the hill" were beaten by Trinity College school, Port Hope, by the score of 16 to 18 after ten minutes' overtime.

The teams:
Scott, Back; Ficken, halves; Lindsay, McQuay, Martin, quarter; Symons; Scrimmage; Green, Hebdon; wings; McEwan, Denison, Clarke, Hinkley, Ross, Ryan.

U. C. C.—Full back, Garvey; halves, Heintzman Palmer, Gossiaux; quarter, Cook; scrummers, Armstrong, Manning, Cooper; wings, Clarkson Clark, Brown, Crowther, Welsh, Danby.

WITH ROUGH RIDERS' DEFEAT OTTAWA THINKS OF HOCKEY

They Claim Their Peerless Machine of Former Years Will Remain Unchanged, But Should Remember the Famous "Can't Come Backs" the Cubs, Jim Jeffrie and Teddie Roosevelt.

Serious efforts are being made to have the National teams establish a salary limit this season, and although the idea is warmly supported in Montreal, Ottawa and Renfrew hockey magnates are indifferent, and while they say that such a thing would be all right, would possibly make money for some of the teams, these clubs know full well that the hockey stars would never consent to a reduction in wages, and the suggestion will likely be canned when the National league meets in Montreal this evening. It was thought that by putting a limit of $7,000 for salaries on each team, that the players would be able to either accept or quit the game, but the public, apparently, are satisfied with the bigger payments, and one thing is certain, that they would not fall in with any scheme that would in any way lower the standard of hockey, and that is what the proposed plan of salary reduction would result in.

Quebec will in all probability secure a berth in the National league, while Horace Gaud, manager of the new Ottawa pro team, the St. Patrick's, states that he has withdrawn his application, and that he will sign up with some other club. The St. Patrick's, the Ancient City captain, has been doing a little scouting, and the results are said to be very favorable to Quebec's application to the big league. The withdrawal of Cobalt and Haliburton, while still officially announced, is taken for granted, and with Quebec once more a member, the National League will look pretty much like the former C. H. A., with the addition of Renfrew.

Among the Amateur teams will gather up their ammunition for tonight's shot, when the Interprovincial Amateur Hockey Association meets in Toronto for the selection of a schedule and also the consideration of several applications.

RINK WILL OPEN ON FRIDAY NEXT

Thistle Will Have a Large Outdoor Skating Surface for Use on Fine Evenings

For the information of several thousand Edmontonians who have been polishing up their skates and seriously scanning the thermometer, it can be stated that the Thistle Rink will be ready for business on Friday night.

Jimmy York says that if his old college chum, Mr. Forster, the man who makes the weather, does not lean on his job, there will be good skating on that date.

The Thistle Rink will be used for skating and hockey this season, while Mr. York has fenced the rink off immediately to the rear of the building and will have one of the finest outdoor rinks in the country. With an ice surface of 180 x 180 feet for use on fine evenings and the indoor rink for the nights when the breeze blows down from the north, there should certainly be something doing this winter.

The two rinks are connected by a passageway, so skaters can take their choice.

The Skating Club has made arrangements for the use of the rink on one night of each week and promises 12 have a larger membership than ever before.

Jimmy York has introduced another innovation this season, in the shape of an iron chair back. He claims it is the room in which the moving picture machine for the fight pictures was installed, but other people think it is a bullet proof cage for the badly-harassed hockey referees. It will be good news for the highly-educated gentlemen who are used as judges of the game in the Edmonton-Prince Albert Pro Reform games.

JACK JOHNSON ORATOR, FIGHTER

Negro Champion Has a Silver Tongue as Well as a Golden Smile.

New York, Nov. 15.—"Jack" Johnson, pugilist, chauffeur, spellbinder and idol of his race, was the guest of Senator Thomas J. McManus and stellar attraction at a mass meeting under the auspices of the Thomas J. McManus Association in the Bethel American Methodist church. Fully three hundred crowded into the place to hear Johnson speak, and as many more listened in the streets outside. Johnson was dressed in a chocolate-colored suit, a multi-colored waistcoat, soft grey hat, and was manicured to the minute. His personal adornment, which made him look like a transplanted Maiden Lane jewelry store, eclipsed the garish splendors of the hall. He was serious. The famous golden smile seemed to be shelved for the silver voice. He spoke in a measured and studied tone.

The Ottawa Hunt Club, and Toronto Hunt Club annual point to point races attracted large crowds, the latter club having the honor of winning the Earl Grey Challenge Cup, emblematic of the Hunt Club championship of the Dominion.

That pin bowling is now in full swing, numerous leagues and individual competitions engaging the attention of the city dwellers. The fight between the Canadian Bowling Congress and Canadian Bowling Association is developing into quite a row, and an interesting light for the control of alley bowling in Canada is assured.

Curling will come into its own shortly, the touch of frost having weakened the enthusiasm of the "Roaring Game," and only the necessity of ice, is keeping the clubs in the background. Many new clubs have been organized, while the older bodies are taking a much greater membership, indicating that the game is booming more than ever.

There is a Chance That Another Team Will be Needed for Bowling League

Owing to the fact that a number of the G. T. P. office men have resigned as members of the team, it is likely the team entered under that name in the Olympic League will be withdrawn. Eddie Morris anticipates no trouble in getting another entry, though the withdrawal rather upsets the present work of the committee.

A meeting of the team captains will be held this evening at the Olympic, when it is expected, the league schedule will be drawn up, and it is hoped to get under way by Monday, the 21st.

F. E. Simonson, the hero of Saturday's high scores, is thinking of retiring and taking his little team on the road, three times per week.

From the times recorded in previous High runs, there seems little doubt Alec will be there or thereabouts at the finishing tape.

NUTS OVER RUGBY

Copper is Surprised to Hear Young Gentlemen Shooting Signals on the Street.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—"Forty-four, sixty-eight, seventy-two, eighty-four—Buck the line—Buck the line," were the cries that greeted Detective McDonald when he went to arrest a young man on Percy street.

The youth has evidently become demoted over football, and before being taken into custody, has shown at various times that he was afflicted with "football mania," as he was continually talking about the game, and the room in which the moving picture machine for the fight pictures was installed, but other people think it is a bullet proof cage for the badly-harassed hockey referees. It will be good news for the highly-educated gentlemen who are used as judges of the game in the Edmonton-Prince Albert Pro Reform games.

OTTAWA WANTS PAID REFEREES

By Appointing These, the Wrangle Over Selection of Officials Will be Done Away With.

(Special to Capital)
Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 15.—Satisfied as they are with the result of the National League meeting on Saturday, the Ottawa Hockey Club intends going farther into the re-organization of that body and at the next gathering of the major hockey league will agitate for the appointment of paid referees, the object in view being the abolition of the continued wrangling that mars the selection of officials for the big games.

ESKIMOS WILL ENTER LEAGUE

Edmonton Rugby Club Decided Last Night to Have a Hockey Seven.

At a meeting of the Edmonton rugby club management committee, held last evening in the Hotel Cecil, it was decided to place a hockey team in the City Hockey League.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Bankers have already signified their intention of entering and as provision was made by the A. A. H. A. meeting at Red Deer, for a third Edmonton team, the Eskimos will apply for the vacant franchise.

Backed up by a strong organization like the Edmonton Rugby club, there is no reason why the Eskimos should not make a very creditable showing on the ice.

Among the club members are the following hockeyists: Wilson, O'Donohue, Starke, Bishop, McCarthy, Scrapper McDonald, Mervin and Parrelle, who were depended upon to play, are leaving town, but their places will be easily filled. Fred McKenney, Bill Bamford, and Lyons, of last year's J. H. Morris team, are possibilities, and the rugby club has its eyes on some crack-players. With McCarthy in the net, Bill Bamford at point and Lyons, cover-point, the defence would be just about the class of the league.

Measrs. Benjamin and O'Donohue were appointed as delegates to the meeting of the City League which is held for Friday evening in the Y. M. C. A. hall. The Eskimos are admitted to the league, a manager, secretary and committee will be selected at an early date.

The Eskimos finished the Rugby season with a small deficit, which has been made good. Both games in Edmonton were failures financially, but the club, by holding its men together during the hockey season, expects to commence next autumn with its organization already perfected, and so get started earlier than this year.

"Capitol" Beer vs. "Budweiser"

We beg to inform our many patrons that we are using a temporary label for our "Capitol" Beer as an injunction has been granted by the Courts restraining us from using our original "Capitol" label pending our law suit with the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, of St. Louis, Mo. The quality of "Capitol" however will be just the same, or better if we can make it so; and judging from the demand we are sure that our patrons know from experience that it is the BEER and not the label that has made "Capitol" so widely popular.

"No," said Joe, "you wouldn't miss it."
"Just one thing more." The red bearded man rose, snatching the inner band of his straw hat. "In the matter of your running for mayor, now—"

Joe, who had begun to pace up and down the room, made an impatient gesture. "Fellow!" he interrupted, but his friend stopped him with a hand laid on his arm.

"Don't be treacher! It is clean out of all possibility, Joe. Louden, if you do, it shows you haven't sense to know that nobody can say what way the wind's blowing!"

"Fellow!" he repeated, but his friend stopped him with a hand laid on his arm.

"You're hinting at such mysteries before, Mike," Joe smiled. "I'd be glad to know what you mean if there's anything in them."

"It may come to that," said the other, with some embarrassment. "It may come to that some day if the old wolf presses me too hard in the matter of 'tryin' to get the little man across the street hanged by the neck and yester mornin' for helpin' him. But today I'll say no more."

"Very well, Mike," Joe turned wearily to his desk. "I don't want you to break any promises."

Mr. Sheehan had gone to the door, but he paused on the threshold and wiped his forehead again. "And I don't want to break any," he said, "but if over the time should come when I couldn't help it—he lowered his voice to a hoarse, but piercing, whisper—"

"That will be the devoured angel's day for Martin Pike!"

CHAPTER XVIII

IT was a morning of the warmest week of mid-July, and Canaan lay inert and helpless beneath a broiling sun. The few people who moved about the streets went languidly, keeping close to the wall on the shady side; the women in thin white fabrics; the men, often without, carrying palm-leaf fans and replacing collars with handkerchiefs. In the courtyard the maple leaves, gray with blown dust and grown to great breadth, drooped heavily, depressing the long, motionless branches with their weight so low that the four or five shabby ladders upon the benches beneath now and then flicked them sleepily with whitened sprigs.

The doors and windows of the stores stood open, displaying limp wares of trade, but few tokens of life, the clerks languishing over dim counters as far as possible from the glare in front, gossiping fragmentarily, usually about the Cory murder and anon upon a subject suggested by the sight of an occasional pedestrian passing perfunctory with scrooped eyelids and purpling skin.

From street and sidewalk transparent hot waves swam up and danced themselves into nothing, while from the river bank a half mile away came a sound hotter than even the locust's midsummer rasp, the drone of a plating mill.

Greater heat than that of these blazing days could not have kept one of the sages from attending the conclave now, for the battle was on in Canaan, and here upon the National House corner, under the shadow of the west wall, it waxed even keener. Perhaps we may find full justification for calling what was happening a battle in so far as we restrict the figure to apply to this one spot. Elsewhere in the Canaan of the Toccin the conflict was too one-sided. The Toccin had indeed tried the case of Happy Fear in advance, had convicted and condemned and every day grew more bitter. Nor was the urgent vigor of its attack without effect.

Sleepy as Main street seemed in the heat, the town was incensed and roused to a smolder of feeling it had not known since the civil war, when, on occasion, it had set out to hang half a dozen "Kokots of the Golden Circle."

"You're hinting at such mysteries before, Mike," Joe smiled. "I'd be glad to know what you mean if there's anything in them."

"It may come to that," said the other, with some embarrassment. "It may come to that some day if the old wolf presses me too hard in the matter of 'tryin' to get the little man across the street hanged by the neck and yester mornin' for helpin' him. But today I'll say no more."

INFANT PARALYSIS IN CHICKS

Epidemic Reported from Several Counties in Iowa—Doctor Trying It on Puppies

Red Oak, Ia., Nov. 14.—The Iowa state board of health has a new factor to deal with in the fight which it has been waging upon the spread through-out the state of infantile paralysis.

This latest complication comes in the shape of reports from several counties to the effect that chickens are being destroyed in great numbers by a disease which, if it is no infantile paralysis, is much like it.

One of the most severe attacks of the plague upon the chickens is reported from Pella, a small place near here which is famed in a local way for its prize poultry. Dr. Fred Carpenter of that town is a fancier of the feathered pets, and some of his own birds have been attacked.

Dr. Carpenter has been experimenting with the disease which, if it is no infantile paralysis, is much like it.

A PROMOTER'S BRIGHT IDEA

He Planned a Device for Weighing a Banker's Thought on His "Proposition"

Bill Wilkie and I, says B. F. Sutherland in the Philadelphia Telegraph, were negotiating the sale of some mining stock to a banker, when a chance remark of the financier's set me to thinking, and an important discovery followed the line of thought as trade follows the flag.

I'll weigh the matter further," the man of mine had remarked, partly by way of dismissal and partly to encourage as to call again, perhaps.

"Now, what did he mean by that?" I wondered. "You cannot determine the value of mining stock by figuring the specific gravity of the paper upon which it is printed, and when investors begin to weigh the chances of underground fortune hunting the promotion business languishes."

Then I said to myself that I should like to get the specific gravity of that banker's intentions with reference to investing in New Golconda. If he meant to dig up—well, my boarding house would like to know it. Then like a flash, I conceived the idea of weighing thought.

Bill Wilkie and I let the finance game rest for a few days while we constructed a machine for weighing mental processes. We found that some other scientists had anticipated us by a few years, but under their demonstration had failed for want of material. Their machine was graduated to milligrams, and their thoughts weighed the indivisible decimal of a decimal. We profited by their experience—and the weight of our mental processes. You would weigh our thoughts on any simple device. All we needed was a machine of large capacity.

We rigged a platform sensitively balanced on a pivot, at its centre. The thinker was required to lie down on the platform and then induced to think as strenuously as the subject matter seemed to justify. A graduated scale on the end of the machine showed the degree of tilt, and accordingly the value of the thought in terms of averdupois.

We found that a philosopher sometimes thought in absolute terms of weight and the political economists we tested exhibited an influence equivalent to a lift—the antithesis of gravity!

A table of comparative data will serve to illustrate some deductions.—The thought required to solve a difficult problem in algebra weighs about three drams.

This treatise was written under a gravitational pressure of eighty-five pounds net.

Take this proposition: "The Republican party is the party of progress, but if it progresses backward as fast as it progresses forward its progress equals its retrogression, minus friction and accretion." Weight four milligrams of poor quality.

Take this: "The humming bird has an advantage over a pretty woman—the ruby-throat is unconscious of his beauty." Weight imponderable.

We experimented with a lot of thoughts, but Bill Wilkie suggested the first practical application for our scheme. When it comes to guile Bill is the best thing in to-day's mail.

"Let us put the banker on this machine and get an idea of what he thinks of our mining proposition," he suggested.

We weighed the banker with one specious plea and another until he prostrated himself on our weighing machine, and then we said words that suggested thoughts of 40 per cent. and no assessments. It was no go. The scale indicated four-tenths of one milligram.

Bill traded our stock for a board-bill receipt and weighed free of charge, the land-lady's appreciation of the deal. The scales just balanced.

DUTY ON GOWNS IS $15,000

New York, Nov. 14.—Eleven thousand dollars in duty, mostly on Parisian gowns, was paid by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt when she returned from Europe. This is the season's record, if not for all time, of duty paid on individual baggage.

Customs inspectors were five hours in examining Mrs. Vanderbilt's forty-five trunks. They occupied space enough for a big store and were looked after by a special agent and six servants.

Besides her gowns Mrs. Vanderbilt brought back with her $200,000 in jewels, heretofore purchased and not dutiable.

showed the degree of tilt, and accordingly the value of the thought in terms of averdupois.

Defining a Skeleton

The superintendent was in the habit of dropping into the different classrooms and demanding a recital of lessons from the pupils. One day her active mind hit upon physiology as the study for examination. But the little girl to whom the first question was put so bewildered the superintendent and made her lose her patience that there were no more questions of a similar nature asked.

"Tell me," said the superintendent, "what a skeleton is."

"The little girl thought for a short time. 'A skeleton?' she repeated. 'A skeleton? Why, a skeleton is a man with his insides out and his outside off.'—New York Sun.

CITY COMMISSIONERS

City Solicitor Down in reporting to the commissioners yesterday afternoon on the suggested establishment of a censorship for moving picture shows, stated that the city had not the power to censor films, but in lieu of that he says the city has the right to enforce the criminal law regulating pictures and to prosecute those who present films containing scenes which if actually performed would be subject to the criminal law. In his conclusion, Mr. Down corroborates the opinion of the chief of police who recently expressed the opinion that the city could not legally censor moving pictures.

In the draft by-law covering the case of moving pictures, which Mr. Down submitted a penalty of a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $100, or 30 days. Mr. Down omitted any reference to restriction of the regular play houses. He explained that his reasons for so doing were to safeguard from mutilation the plays of Shakespeare, many of the elements of the bard containing the products of murder and suicide. The production of Shakespearean plays in moving picture houses will apparently be illegal.

The by-law will be forwarded to the Temperance and Moral Reform League and council of women for approval.

Frederick C. Low, the Boston architect, engaged during the regime of Superintendent Taylor of the street railway to make designs for the new car barns, has forwarded his plans. The plans provide for an $85,000 building, but as the cost was not supposed to have exceeded $60,000 and Mr. Low's bills for services amount to $507, 42 per cent. of the cost, his bill will be investigated before paid.

Fire extinguishers will be purchased for the fire department at a cost of $16.50 each.

Dr. Whitelaw recommended the establishment of a children's hospital, and suggested that joint responsibility be assumed by the province and the city. A location, he said, which would be suited to all purposes would be in close proximity to the new Royal Alexandra Hospital. A building is already in use for that purpose, but the medical health officer condemns it as unsanitary, inconvenient, and inadequate. Mr. Buchart will investigate the matter.

Richard Holdsworth, in a letter to the commissioners declared that extension of the street railway along Albany Avenue to Park street, which the commissioners have decided it would be impossible to build at the present time would be made an issue at the coming municipal elections.

DID NOT STEAL

Chas. Campbell, accused of stealing an overcoat from the Brunswick Hotel was discharged by Magistrate Fowles yesterday afternoon on grounds that he was intoxicated when he committed the theft, while the prosecution failed to show that Campbell intended to appropriate the garment.

PREMIER SIFTON

Mr. Stewart, in moving the reply to the Speech from the Throne, congratulated Lieut.-Governor Dulyea on his re-appointment to the governorship for a second term, considering it a marked tribute to the qualities which His Honor had displayed during his first term of office. Mr. Stewart made reference to the great betterment the empire had sustained in the death of Edward VII, and the bright prospects for a long and happy reign of George V, so well qualified to succeed his illustrious father.

The most important question confronting the province of Alberta was the furthering of the interests of Agriculture was the opinion expressed by Mr. Stewart, and he expressed the opinion that in Hon. Duncan Marshall and his deputy there were two men, who through their training and experience would look after and further these interests satisfactorily.

Agricultural Conditions

"Conditions in this province as regards agriculture," said Mr. Stewart, are so diversified that it requires study to produce the best results. Methods that are applicable to the south are contrary to the requirements of the north. The Dominion government had given valuable assistance by the establishment of experimental farms. Nothing had been done yet by the agriculture department that has been the cause of so much good as the establishment of short course schools and it is the duty of the government of the province to see that the farming community were successful and to make that branch of the work to come up to the very highest ideals.

"The government has always been anxious to assist in the development of the province and to further their efforts they have caused the establishment of a provincial immigration and public department, which has been the cause of a steady flow of settlers from all parts including the United States. The public department has distributed already twelve tons of literature and thousands of letters setting forth to prospective settlers the possibilities in all lines in the province of Alberta."

The government had also taken great pains in educational matters and had seen to it that no child should be neglected. During the past year 112 rural schools had been established, while universities in both Calgary and Strathcona were under way. Public works had not been neglected either, and considerable work had been done in the construction of public buildings, the bridging of rivers and streams, and the extension of the telephone system to formerly isolated districts.

The Present Minority

Mr. Stewart referred to the resignation on May 26th of Premier Ruthenford and the subsequent formation of a government by the Hon. A. L. Sifton, whom the speaker said was admirably adapted for the office. Hon. C. R. Mitchell, Hon. A. J. McLean, and Hon. Duncan Marshall were also eulogized by Mr. Stewart.

Liberal Doctrine

The great doctrine of democratic liberalism and its effect on the progress and prosperity of Canada was fully expounded by Mr. Stewart, and he referred to the famous apostle of liberalism, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the principles for which his government stood.

"I note changes on your left, Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Stewart. The junior member for Calgary has doffed the mantle of leadership in favor of the honorable member for Red Deer. I feel sure that the member for Red Deer will occupy the leadership of the Conservative party with ability and honor."

In conclusion Mr. Stewart again referred to the policy of the government in opening up the province for settlement and the introducing within its boundaries civilized and modern conditions, and the fostering among newcomers a spirit of love for the old flag and the great empire.

Mr. McArthur

"I am not accustomed yet to parliamentary procedure," said Mr. McArthur on rising to second the motion, and I appreciate the honor done me. I realize, however, that my being chosen to second this motion, is not due to anything I have done, but rather on account of the large and important constituency which I have the honor to represent."

Mr. McArthur, in common with Mr. Stewart, laid particular stress on the necessity of watching agricultural interests.

"Notwithstanding the great timber and mineral resources of Alberta," said Mr. McArthur, "the foundation of the province rests on agriculture. If the farmer succeeds, the province will prosper; but if the farmer fails, then the province will surely fall. The government might do well in spending the money at its disposal along agricultural lines and it would be better to not spend large sums on public buildings and other public buildings at present until the agricultural condition of the province is put on a firm basis."

Mr. McArthur also offered congratulations to Lieut.-Governor Dulyea on his re-appointment, and suggested that one of his best actions was the calling on Premier Sifton to form a government on the resignation of Dr. Ruthenford.

The election in Gleichen, he said, was a satisfactory test of public opinion in regard to the popularity of Governor Dulyea's action, and an endorsement of Premier Sifton as president of the executive council.

In referring to the Waterways matter, Mr. McArthur expressed the hope that when the house took up the discussion of that vexatious problem, that it would do so with the best harmony.

"We are all very fond of boosting this province," said Mr. McArthur in closing. "of the great future and of the things in it, but a point to be remembered is that the quality of its citizenship is of far more importance."

Mr. Michener

Mr. Michener asked the indulgence of the house while he delivered his first speech as leader of the opposition. Mr. Michener said he deeply appreciated the sentiment contained in the speech of the member for Sedgewick in regard to the late King, referring to the great qualities of the dead monarch, and his well gained title of "Peacemaker." Indications pointed to a successful reign of King George, ascending the throne, as he did at a mature age, with plenty of experience and knowledge.

"We need have no fear or distrust as regards our form of government," said Mr. Michener, "as long as we have men of the stamp of King George V. to reign over us."

Attacks Sifton

Having concluded the conventionalities, Mr. Michener launched into a criticism of the action of the Lieut.-Governor and of the premier, and he asked the first minister and his lieutenant, Hon. C. R. Mitchell, to bear in mind the fact that they had not the endorsement of the people of the province.

"The speech from the throne," continued the leader of the opposition, "contains no reference to what the government has done nor to what it proposes to do. I do not see any indications of a policy whatever."

"The premier," Mr. Michener continued, "has said as much. I submit, Mr. Speaker, that if we are going to enjoy the conditions of prosperity as they exist in this province, we must be larger than our party. The honorable member for Sedgewick, in moving the reply, laid particular emphasis on the magic word 'Liberalism,' but if we are to advance with civilization, developing this province and assist in the laying of the foundation of empire we must not consider our party paramount. There is not a difference between the parties in this province as there is in federal politics and in the old country. No party is worthy of the name unless they seek first, last and always the good of the country above the good of their party."

The Autocratic Party

At this point, Mr. Michener announced that he had picked on new names for the opposing parties. The government he would call the autocratic party, because of its usurpation of legislative powers, while the Conservatives he would term "the People's Party."

In the last clause of the speech from the throne reference was made to "a sense of supreme responsibility." Did it mean a supreme sense of responsibility to the country or to a particular party to which a member might belong?

"The record of the Liberal party does not indicate a sense of supreme responsibility," declared Mr. Michener, "criticizing the administration severely on the manner in which it took office and their actions since, the delay in calling on the representatives of the people, the Waterways deal, and the absolutely insufficient way in which the affairs of the province have been conducted."

"That the government did not consider the question of agriculture in its estimates was another point on which Mr. Michener scored the government."

"When a man takes a homestead, does he build a mansion?" asked the leader of the opposition. "No, when his soil is producing, and he is getting a return, then he builds a home suitable for his requirements." Therefore the government should not engage in wanton expenditure on public works until it had laid the foundation of agricultural progress, reasoned Mr. Michener.

Agricultural Colleges

"It is over five years since we first had a provincial government," said Mr. Michener, "but no attempt has been made for the training of agricultural students. They would start schools, so they started a university. In British Columbia, where they have a revenue of five times the size of ours, and which has had provincial autonomy for a great deal longer time, they are only now thinking of embarking on the problem of a university."

"The best advertisement we have," went on the leader of the opposition, "is a satisfied settler, and when a man comes to this province and finds himself beset with all kinds of difficulties, including poor facilities for transportation, he is going to go back to where he came from and make reports discreditable to the province."

Market Prices

The regulation of market prices in the province was a point which Mr. Michener demanded the attention of the government. The tendency of prices to change with irregularity of temperature was the cause of no little anxiety and worry to the farming class, which he said were obtaining far too little return for their labor and money invested.

Farmer's Loan Fund

It was the duty of the government, declared Mr. Michener, to devise some scheme towards the assistance of settlers who come to this province not over-laden with worldly goods. He suggested the establishment of a farmers' loan fund, say of $700,000, the amount of the bonds of the Alberta and Great West Waterways Railway guaranteed by the Ruthenford government.

"What an inspiration it would be to the farmers," said Mr. Michener. "Credit for the money could be secured at four per cent, and it could be loaned to settlers at five per cent. It would result in a gross benefit to the farmers of the province per annum of $20,000 and a gross income to the government of $70,000, to go towards the development of resources."

Registration Offices

A demand for the opening up of at least five more registration offices in the province, concluded Mr. Michener, of the speech.

"I saw no indication in the speech from the throne," said Mr. Michener, "of the intentions of the government in that matter. The lack of registration offices is the cause of much inconvenience and is unfair to many cities and towns in the province."

Premier Sifton

The Premier's speech was delivered in a sarcastic strain.

In speaking the premier referred to Mr. Michener's quick change from an independent position to that of leader of the Conservative party. It was very funny that he should have sunk his independence on the first day of the session and become leader.

The premier indulged in a lengthy dissertation in support of the Lieut.-Governor's action in calling upon him to form a government.

"The leader of the opposition said that the premier of the province has not received the sanction of the people of the province," said Mr. Sifton, "but many things in history in regard to his own party can be cited, of that kind, but I do not think it necessary to detain you, Mr. Speaker, by going into historical allusions."

"There were two things which made the selection of the premier constitutional," continued Mr. Sifton. "The first was the selection by the Lieut.-Governor, and then the endorsement by a majority of the house. I could not go all over the province seeking endorsement, and it is a credit of the constituency of Vermilion that it should gain the first opportunity of endorsing the Lieut.-Governor's choice. Medicine Hat followed, then Gleichen."

The leader of the opposition has suggested that a member should be larger than his party. This is very easy when you have jointly three or four representatives, but such a statement is peculiar coming on the first day of the honorable member's leadership. And then he gets new names for us. He calls us the 'Autocratic' party."

Have Fought Autocracy

"For hundreds of years," declared the premier, "the Liberal party has fought the autocracy of the Conservative party. They have fought and fought for years against just such conservatism as the leader of the opposition mentions."

In reference to the suggestion of a farmers' loan fund the premier stated that when it would have the effect of driving the loan companies, banks, trust companies, and insurance companies out of the province.

"The farmers do not require it," said the premier, "all they want is a show to make a living in the ordinary way, and they are prepared to come up here and fight for a living."

The premier created much amusement by accusing Mr. Michener of being in the same boat as himself as regards the endorsement of the people. He asked Mr. Michener if he, a member elected as an independent had the permission of his electors to turn Conservative and lead the party.

"I didn't the honorable leader of the opposition better go back to his constituents and admit to them that he was not able to properly represent them as an independent, and if they want him or their representative now, when he has turned Conservative and accepted the leadership of the party."

In regard to the speech from the throne, Mr. Sifton stated that the business of the government would not be done on the speech.

Mr. Bennett's Reply

"The ranting talk of an irresponsible school-boy," was Mr. Bennett's opinion of the premier's speech. "More ranting than Albertus quidam," I defy one to read in the face of history," declared the redoubtable R. B. "They used to call it 'hot air' when I did it, but I suppose it makes a difference who does it."

"I think it is time that the country should know the reason why the honorable leader of the government has called premier," went on Mr. Bennett. "There are 20,000 reasons all worth ten cents on the dollar. It is the same with the Attorney-General, but although they are not so numerous, they are of equal value."

"There is a sarcastic reference to the leader of the opposition, these cohorts attacks, these infernal innuendoes are desecratable to the first minister," declared Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett, in regard to the charges of unconstitutionality to read attempted to prove the Alberta question parallel and therefore unconstitutional, and challenged the premier and attorney-general to prove their position bona-fide.

"Who voted the money that these men have spent since they occupied office?" asked Mr. Bennett. "Who supplied the money? They raised it by royal warrant without the consent of the representatives of the people."

"Expediency is the reply of the opposition," went on Mr. Bennett. "If expediency is the only rule, as a reply we would not be today enjoying such liberties as we are."

The A. & G. W.

"What is the prime minister here for? Why is he here? Because the member for Strathcona resigned over the Alberta and Great West Waterways. The first minister has been called in because of the A. & G. W., and we want to know what he intends to do about the matter which brought him into power. It is only fair."

The Farmers' Loan Fund

Mr. Bennett then criticized the premier for his reply to the Sifton suggestion in regard to the farmers' loan fund idea.

"Since when has the first minister the interests of the loan companies and banks at heart?" he enquired, "hurling into me such a charge of the betterment of the province through the banishment of the companies?"

The speaker stated that the men to whom the farmers' loan fund would apply would be those who would be sent to serve money from loan companies, because of lack of security. It was not for the wealthy farmer it was for the settler to assist him in building up a home. The method used with success in New Zealand could be operated with equal success in Alberta.

"What New Zealand has done, Alberta might emulate," said Mr. Bennett.

The Speech

Mr. Bennett then attempted to re-define the speech from the throne, asking what on earth the government was forming up such a "bill-of-charge."

"It is a speech made to disguise thought," was Mr. Bennett's comment.

Profound Regret

Mr. Bennett also got in his little joke by drawing attention to the fact that when Premier Ruthenford resigned the lieutenant-governor merely stated that he had the honor to report the resignation of the first minister while in the speech from the throne he actually later he made the same reference with "profound regret."

He created another laugh when on criticizing the government for not making the Waterways report public at an earlier date, as was the case with the Port of Commission and other reports. He said that when it was presented, a motion was made and passed to have it printed and " presto changed" lot it was printed, two minutes after the passage of the motion."

Mr. Mitchell's Speech

Hon. C. R. Mitchell followed. In connection with the constitutionality of the Lieut.-Governor's action in regard to the premier's speech, he expressed surprise that the argument should have had such a long life, especially since the foremost talent of the province, and other authorities had pronounced the action legal.

ABOUT TOWN.

Mrs. R. A. Holgate, 649 Fourteenth Street, will receive Thursday, Nov. 14, and after that on the first Wednesday of the month.

The Municipal Improvement league will hold a meeting this evening in the hall at the corner of Griesbach street and Namayo Avenue, when matters pertaining to the league will be discussed. The ticket to be offered for election in the coming civic contest will also be under consideration.

MR. CONNIE HERE.

James Connie, M.P., of Port Arthur, who is interested in the construction of the Southern Central Pacific railway arrived in the city yesterday morning from the south, and as a guest at the King Edward Hotel.

Mr. Connie in the morning had a conference with Premier Sifton in connection with the railway project.

The Alberta Southern Pacific holds a Dominion charter and a subsidized by the Federal Government. The line according to the route map is to tap the Kootenay Pass coal fields in the southern section and is to run north to Calgary and Edmonton through the foothills.

When seen by the Capital this morning Mr. Connie declined to discuss his railway project.

'CANADIAN' CLUB.

The Canadian Club is arranging for the holding of two luncheons this week. The first will probably be given on Thursday when Professor Robertson, chairman of the Royal Commission on Technical Education will be the guest of honor. The second will probably be held on Saturday, when Frederick Huron, of London, England, who is engaged in bringing tenant farmers of the old country to Canada, under the auspices of the department of the interior, will address the club.

Mr. Huron is making special efforts to induce members of the agricultural class to come to this country in preference to city people, as they are considered to be of far more benefit to Canada than the others.

FOR THE COMMITTEE ON TECHNICAL EDUCATION

The committee appointed to prepare for the coming sessions of the Royal Commission on Technical Education on Thursday and Friday of this week, met in the city council chamber yesterday. The programme as arranged this morning involves a visit on Thursday morning to several of the local industries, and a session for the hearing of evidence in the afternoon and evening. The evening session is to be held for the benefit of those who cannot attend in the day time. On Friday morning more industries will be visited and at noon the commission will visit Sincinema, probably holding a session there in the afternoon. An effort will be made for the holding of a public meeting, probably in the Separate school hall on Friday night.

A committee of seven were appointed, including representatives of the various organizations for the purpose of gathering evidence for the commission, while a separate publicity committee of three was also appointed. The evidence committee is composed as follows: W. H. Clark, board of trade; J. T. Clark, trades and labor council; J. H. Picard, Separate school board; James McGill, public school board; Mayor Lee, representing the city; Miss Murphy, affiliated women's societies; and J. H. Boush, Builders' Exchange.

CONGDON SPEAKS FOR LIBERAL CLUB.

How to reconcile democracy with empire, the rule of the many with the rule of the few, the future of the nation with regard to the past, the passion for freedom with respect for law, were problems touched on in the address of F. T. Congdon, M.P., last evening on Liberalism and Democracy. The history of democracy and the progress of liberal party were discussed as a justification of the subject. The Liberal party was the party of democracy, said Mr. Congdon. Every measure calculated to advance democracy in Canada was the result of the persistence of the Liberals. This was true also of the Liberal party in Great Britain. The contest which had reached a crisis there was necessary to bring to perfection the realization of democratic ideals in the Empire and in the Imperial Government.

How Democracy Grows.

In illustration of the foregoing statements the speaker traced the growth of democracy in England, emphasizing more particularly the growth of freedom in relation to the franchise. Having referred to the limitations of the franchise in Greece and Rome, he asked "What state of things do we find with regard to the franchise in the British Empire? To all people over whom the right of government is acquired, by whatever means, the right of the franchise is given, so to be exercised in whatever place the individual resides."

This, he declared, was the ground upon which they might rest the sure hope that the British Empire would last longer than any empire which had preceded it. Under this system there were in the various parts of the Empire centers of vitality which were ever ready to revive the life of any other part which might fail.

He thought they must recognize that the struggle for liberty had been carried on by the Liberal party in Canada. He was not so extreme a radical as to hold unshakable recognition that the Conservative element was necessary to the welfare of the country. In every community and in every phase of life the Conservative element served a useful purpose and was necessary to balance the radicalism of which most of them were prone.

Referring to the division of opinion between the two parties in Canada over the navy he said that he had recently noticed that a Toronto divine had said that the navy was necessary in order that they might send it to Quebec to compel the French-Canadians to vote sensibly. It seemed that it was always the privilege of a divine to utter the final word of silliness. Such remarks as that to which he referred excited neither the ministry nor the discussion of public questions. It must be their endeavor to create a united people in Canada. There must be a spirit of compromise throughout a country made up of so many diverse elements.

Could Sympathize.

He had a measure of sympathy with the French-Canadians in their dislike of the navy. He was a man of peace, who looked forward to the time when the working people would bring about universal peace. When they became intelligent enough to recognize that war was a deadly loss then the kings would be left to fight wars between themselves personally and without the aid of the working men at their back.

Unfortunately, however, in present conditions it was necessary for a self-respecting people to guard and maintain its institutions. Canada could not allow herself to depend wholly upon Great Britain.

It had been suggested that in case of war the United States would be compelled under the Monroe Doctrine to come to Canada's defence. They could not leave their freedom to be defended by others.

He believed, however, that the greatest thing that could happen to the Empire, was the enfoldment in closer friendship of the Union Jack of the Empire with the Stars and Stripes of the United States. He did not mean by this that he desired political fusion. He thought that the majority of intelligent men of both nations realized that on the continent there was ample field for two great nations to grow up together, each with similar ideals but solving its own problems in its own way.

In what respect did the policy of the government on the navy question differ from that of the opposition? In view of the conflicting utterances of Mr. Dorden the question presented some difficulties but the final decision was on the question whether Canada should have the cost of the navy or whether she should abandon that control to the British Admiralty.

If they abandoned the control of the Canadian navy to the Admiralty they abandoned it to the control of the British parliament, which the people of Canada had no direct voice. It was the intention of the Liberal party in Canada that the "Canadian navy should be available for the defence of Canada and the Empire, but always on the advice of those who were directly responsible to the people of Canada."

The Tories had got back to the old idea that in Canada we had not intelligence, ability and loyalty enough to operate our little navy.

The much discussed question of reciprocity with the United States was one which was especially dear to him. He was an out and out free trader. There were not many of them in the House at Ottawa. He and Dr. Clark of Red Deer were looked upon as a sort of Siamese twins.

He doubted whether it would be advisable to abolish protection at one fell swoop. They must take no step that would shake confidence in the business of the country. Nevertheless it was possible at the present time to take a large step towards free trade. Personally he proposed to do what he could to bring about the greatest possible measure of reciprocity. Not only would it give a larger market to Canadian products, but it would serve to remove a thousand and one causes of friction which might at any time lead to trouble between the two countries.

They must recognize that democracy had come to stay on this continent. John Morley in his essay on democracy had said that in the realization of the democratic ideal there were three things to be considered: The first was how to reconcile the rule of numbers with the rule of sane judgment. That was a difficulty which could be overcome only by the education of the masses. He would like to be able to reform the educational system of Canada, which he believed to be sadly in need of reform.

If he could have his way he would begin to teach the youngest children Shakespeare and leave the teaching of geometry and kindred subjects until ten years later.

The second problem mentioned by John Morley was, how to reconcile the passion for liberty and equality with the sovereign regard for law and order. And the third problem was, how to reconcile our hopes for the future with a wise reverence for tradition and the past.

A vote of thanks was moved by Hon. Duncan Marshall, who mentioned his surprise at the growth of free trade sentiment in the United States as observed on his recent visit there. One of the members of the tariff commission had said that if he had his way all the customs houses on the frontier would be burned.
